

Jets Juniors Aim High with the Royal Air Force

Jets Volleyball Club has announced a sponsorship deal with the Royal Air Force to support the newly formed junior programme.

Flight Lieutenant Jim Thompson and Martyn Johnstone agreed a partnership with the RAF providing a full set of strips for the Under 16 Girls Junior National League team for their inaugural season in the Scottish League.

Martyn comments ‘This is a really big opportunity for Jets Volleyball Club to promote Junior Volleyball in Scotland and to give kids from the West of Edinburgh the opportunity to play Volleyball. In conjunction with the RAF we have also managed to secure funding from Cash for Clubs to allow these kids to continue in their volleyball development. This season is a big step for Jets Volleyball Club with it being the first season ever we have produced a Junior Team. Some of the players we have playing for us are very talented and we have already produced one player who competed in the recent UK School Games in Newcastle’.

Jim Thompson from the RAF said ‘The RAF is really excited to be supporting the world of Volleyball in Edinburgh. We already sponsor many youth activities in Scotland and we felt this was a good opportunity to assist a fledgling youth sporting programme. I wish the team and the club every success this year’.

Jets Juniors will open up their Junior League campaign on Sunday 10th October at home with 2 matches against Team Lanarkshire and City of Edinburgh. Details of the match times and venue will be available at www.jetsvolleyball.co.uk.
